

DBPowerSuite Purchase Options & Form

January 31, 2010

Talus Software sells DBPowerSuite in the form of

1. Product Licenses
2. Run-Time Only Environment Licenses
3. Source Code Licenses
4. Technical Support Contract

1. Product Licenses

The DBPowerSuite product costs $ 200.00 USD for the first computer. $100.00 USD for each computer after that. The license lasts forever. You get all future updates for the product so long as the major version of the product stays the same. In other words, a person who buys v7.x gets all updates until the product progresses to v8.x.

2. Run-Time Only Licenses

Some companies develop their own software based on DBPowerSuite's API: They write software that links to DBPowerSuite's libraries. Then the company distributes the DBPowerSuite-linked software within their company or sells it to their customers. Each computer that installs DBPowerSuite for run-time purposes only (no DBPowerSuite programs) pays $50/computer.

A product license implicitly contains a run-time environment license.

Call Talus Software directly (919.815.0126) to purchase run-time licenses.

3. Source Code License

Some companies may want to license the DBPowerSuite source code. There are many reasons why a company may want to do this:

- a. They want to embed pieces of DBPowerSuite source code in their own proprietary source code
- b. They want to see how DBPowerSuite accomplishes specific tasks.
- c. They want to feel safe and in control. If they need a bug fix or an enhancement, they can do it themselves.

To such companies, Talus Software charges a one-time source code license fee, good for a single source code drop. Your company cannot sell or market DBPowerSuite in any fashion, nor can your company compete with DBPowerSuite. But your company can embed DBPowerSuite within its own applications.

A source code drop costs US$ 50,000.00.

Contact Talus Software (919.815.0126) to purchase a source code drop.

4. Technical Support Contract

Tech support by phone costs $5000/year per contact. E-mail tech support is free but there is no guarantee of responding within a certain time period.
